WHO WE ARE

Public Responsibility in Medicine and Research (PRIM&R) advances the highest ethical standards in the conduct of research. As a national nonprofit founded in 1974, PRIM&R has served the research oversight community for 50 years through education, professional resources, certification, and membership.

Our vibrant community of over 28,000 individuals, 3,500 members from around the world, includes those who work with human subjects protections programs (HRPPs), institutional review boards (IRBs), animal care and use committees (IACUCs), and institutional leaders.

With over 20 professional development opportunities, two professional credentials, and 3,500 attendees at our annual conference, PRIM&R connects, educates, and inspires a commitment to the centrality of ethics in the advancement of science and medicine.

HOW WE CONNECT

Education

PRIM&R's educational programs ensure the highest ethical standards are maintained in research.

PRIM&R's consistent, high-quality educational programming provides opportunities for guidance from experts in the field. PRIM&R offers in-depth education for research professionals at all levels through webinars, workshops, and on-demand courses.

Membership

PRIM&R's supportive membership community provides resources and connections with colleagues from more than 1,000 institutions in more than 40 countries. PRIM&R members connect through continuing education opportunities, mentoring programs, regional connections, online forums, and virtual roundtables.

Sponsorship

PRIM&R sponsors share a commitment to upholding the highest ethical standards in the field. They envision a world in which all who contribute to and benefit from research embrace ethics, welfare, inclusion, and trust as central to science and medicine.

PRIM&R sponsors receive valuable exposure to a highly engaged audience of research professionals, including administrators, investigators, and compliance officers. Sponsorships are tailored to align with marketing objectives, giving the maximum impact on the investment.

A commitment to PRIM&R's programming offers access to a dedicated community of research professionals through visibility during our live programs, related webpages, and other content-driven marketing materials.

Webinar Sponsorship

PRIM&R webinars deliver comprehensive information on timely topics in the fields of human subjects protections and animal care and use. Webinars are first aired live, allowing attendees to interact with and ask questions of the presenters. Webinars are recorded and shared with attendees. They are also available for purchase.

Convenient and affordable, webinars may be used to obtain continuing education credit from professional associations. A collection of relevant background reading, links, templates, checklists, and/or charts accompany each PRIM&R webinar.

2024 Webinar Topics:

- The Current State of Informed Consent
- Broad Consent
- Crowdsourcing Data Collection
- What IAUCs Need to Know Working with IBCs
- How to Tier, Develop, and Manage your IACUC SOPs with Maximum Efficiency
- Implementing FDA Guidance on Expanded Access for Individual Patients
- Ethical Issues in Research Using Digital Technology
- Defining and Navigating Risk in Exempt Research

New to Research Ethics Digest?
Research Ethics Digest is a bimonthly publication containing recent articles from prominent research ethics literature. Articles represent a broad range of interest areas within research ethics, including both human and animal research topics. Articles are curated by PRIM&R staff and grouped into thematic sections for easy browsing. In some cases, we present just the abstract; in others, access to the full article is available.
Once you've browsed the articles of interest to you, you can explore the discussion guides we provide for two articles in each issue. In these guides, we provide further background, questions, and ideas to consider as you think about the article. These one-page PDFs make excellent resources to facilitate discussion with your colleagues.
Research Ethics Digest also includes two columns shared with us by leading publications in the field. Each column presents an intriguing and relevant case study related to animal care and use or human research practices, followed by expert commentary.
Finally, we offer the Research Ethics Digest Self-Study Program, where you can earn continuing education credits by reading the presented articles and successfully completing an online quiz about those articles.
Credits earned through the Self-Study Program can be applied toward your Certified Professional in IACUC Administration (CPIA™) or Certified IRB Professional (CIRP™) credential, or other professional credentials that you might hold. To learn more and find out how you can participate, please visit the Self-Study Program section of this issue.
